Dear Parents

There have always been benefits for children, parents and teachers when they are able to work together.

You don't need to be 'qualified' to chat with children about their painting or writing, but the conversation improves their language, stimulates their interest and boosts their confidence. For many tasks, this interest will help children make better progress. When classes are big, an extra sympathetic adult can work wonders.

You don't need to commit yourself for the year, or every week! Occasional hours can be very useful.

You could:

Help with swimming:

N.B. – a male observer for Tuesday afternoon would be especially welcome.

Observing can be routine, but it is vital for safety:

Take a cookery group:

Simple recipes – just 3 or 4 children!

Listen to readers:

Children progress so much more, with regular practice

Sewing or Crafts:

Technology we call it today!

Can you help model makers, or stitchers

Play Games:

Ludo, lotto, wordsearch and chess are fun, but teach skills as well, or football/netball/cricket/rounders

Share a skill: can you type, drive, sew, garden, build, plumb, compute, play chess, play piano or .....?

Last year dozens of parents helped in these ways. Please offer a little time if you possibly can.

Yours sincerely
